It is an honor and a privilege to recommend M&R Roofing for your next roofing project. Whether your project is large or small, Ralph Harris and his team will go to the ends of the earth to make sure you are satisfied with the finished product.

I have known Ralph Harris for over 10 years and he has completed projects for me at two different districts. Ralph and Josh understand the budgetary constraints that school districts face. When they evaluate your roofs, they will give you an honest opinion so you can prioritize your needs and decide on a project that best suits your district. They are very mindful of how superintendents and boards work together so they want to present options that everyone can get on board with to protect district assets.

I know many other superintendents who have used Ralph and I have never heard of one who was not satisfied with Ralph or his team's work. From the beginning of the project to its completion, Ralph is involved. If a problem does arise, Ralph or a member of his team are right there to address any concerns and do not rest until you are happy. Ralph creates business relationships that turn into friendships because of the attention to detail that M&R puts into every project.

Everyone I have dealt with at M&R are complete professionals and hold to a high standard of customer service. This makes the process so easy from roof evaluation, to proposal, to contract acceptance, to project completion, to invoicing. You will not find a better team who is passionate about providing great service in an affordable manner.

When you are looking at your next roofing project, I urge you to keep M&R Roofing in mind. Give Ralph Harris and his team an opportunity to show you what they can do for you. You will not be disappointed.

Respectfully,

Jarod Bellar
